

WAR OF CENTURIES WON BY U. S. ARMY AT PANAMA CANAL

Armed With Science, Shovels and Picks, Engineer Corps Conquers the Jungles.

FREDERIC J. HASKIN
WRITES OF VICTORY

The Constitution's Readers to Be Given Opportunity to Read Full Details in a Thrilling Book.

Armed with science, shovels and picks, the fighting engineers of the American army have conquered five swamps, repulsed jungles and sliding mountains have advanced to the sea after attack.

survivors' transit. steam shovels, dredges and dynamite have driven a mountain from its age-long entrenchment, cleared the tropical forests and made their mail waters work for the world's commerce.

At every outpost "Old Glory" waves from the ramparts. Every American seeks to know this story of self-sacrifice.

The Constitution has arranged to provide its readers with the thrilling tale in full, offering its readers a book "The Panama Canal," by Frederic J. Haskin, author of "The American Government."

On account of the educational value and patriotic appeal of this book, The Constitution has arranged to distribute a limited edition among its readers for the mere cost of production and handling.

It is bound in heavy cloth. It contains 400 pages, 100 illustrations and diagrams, an index, and two maps (one of them a beautiful bird-eye view of the canal zone in four colors). It is actually a two-dollar value.

On page 2 you will find a coupon cut this coupon from six copies of the issues of the paper, present them with 25 cents at our office, and a copy of the book is yours. Fifteen cents extra, if sent by mail.

This is not a money-making scheme. The book has undertaken the distribution of the book solely because of its educational value and whatever benefit there is to be derived from the good-will of those who profit by our offer. The Constitution will gladly refund the price of the book to any unsatisfied purchaser.

All the chapters of this book which pertain to the actual construction of the canal were read and corrected by General George W. Goethals, chairman and chief engineer of the Isthmian canal commission.

All the illustrations were made from photographs taken on the spot by the official photographer of the commission.

The book contains the colored relief map of the Panama canal, which was made under the direction of the National Geographic society. It also contains the black and white official map of the canal.

The extensive index which makes reference was prepared by G. Thomas Ritchie of the Library of Congress.

The final proofs were revised by Howard B. Sherman, of the government printing office, to conform to the typographical style of the United States government.

Besides digging the canal, Uncle Sam had to feed and house fifty thousand men, many of them with wives and children. This book tells how Uncle Sam watched them, day by day, night by night, caring for their health, happiness and moral welfare. How he fed them, clothed them, gave them shelter, built churches, furnished schools, became a hotel proprietor to accommodate visitors, built a railroad for passenger service to get the men to work and permit them to live in comfortable places.

Mr. Haskin's book describes your Uncle Sam as school teacher, health officer, barber, butcher, baseball manager, ice cream maker and insurance agent. He tells you how Uncle Sam did it.

In this book you will read how an American president, with the keen edge of common sense, cut the Gordian knot that entangled the Isthmian canal and achieved the most stupendous physical accomplishment in all human history. This is so true that there is no second. The seven wonders of the ancient world rolled into one would not even make the foundation for the Gatun dam. And this is the achievement—the achievement of the American people with American money, brains and brawn.

Red tape was cut, graft eliminated, honesty, truth, common sense, and your canal was finished far ahead of time.

Already the great grass across the backbone of the continent is "laid with water." Almost before we realize it a dreadnought battleship will climb the giant stairway of the Gatun locks, steam across the mighty man-made lake, thread its majestic way between the iron-made mountains that rise on either side of the Coluena cut, descend the other giant staircase at Miraflores and sweep into the placid waters of the ocean. Thus will be realized by a nation that was not even conceived until nearly three hundred years after Balboa fell under the spell of the smiling southern sea, a dream of four centuries.

Business men, in Mr. Haskin's book, will learn of a $275,000,000 investment, self-supporting from the start. This is the greatest commercial achievement of all time.

CORN CLUB BOYS MADE HIT WITH HOSTESSES

Letters Continue to Come to Mr. Cooper From Ladies Who Entered Last Year.

Letters continue to come to Secretary Walter G. Cooper, of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, from Atlanta ladies who enjoyed entertaining in their homes, some of the Georgia corn club boys last year.

Nearly all of them who have written, not only express their pleasure over the state of the boys, but urge that other boys be sent to them this year.

Mrs. R. H. White, of 270 Gordon street, writes: "Among our most pleasant and interesting guests were the two corn club boys of last year. Send us two or three more this year."

Here is what Mrs. W. A. Parker, of 431 North Boulevard, says: "The boys you sent me last year were nice, gentlemanly boys. We enjoyed having them and will take two more this year."

Major Having Born. Mrs. J. N. McEachern says: "Our corn club boys proved themselves to be very pleasant. We enjoyed having them in our home. We are glad to hear that you are sending them again."

Mrs. Cam D. Dorsey writes: "I am sorry to say I did not have the pleasure last year of entertaining any of the corn club boys, though I applied for two; but I understood that you had none to spare. If I can accommodate two this year, I shall be glad to do so."

The following is from Mrs. Alex W. Smith, of 101 Peachtree street: "It gives me great pleasure to say a word for the corn club boys and the movement that brings them to the front. We were much interested in the boys who were in our home, and I shall hope to entertain more of them in the future. Call on me again."

Here is what Kendall Weisiger writes: "During last year and the year before we were fortunate enough to be in position to entertain several of the Georgia corn club boys, and I assure you that nothing we have done recently has given us as much pleasure. The little fellows were so entertaining and so interested in everything pertaining to city life, that we purchased not about as much pleasure out of their visit to us, as they did in their visit to Atlanta."

Favorable Comment. J. Phil Campbell, of Athens, Ga., corn club and farm demonstration agent representing the United States department of agriculture, speaking of the hospitality of Atlanta's citizens to the corn club boys, said he had been most favorably commented upon wherever he had been over the country. "Somebody talks to me about it almost every time I go to Washington," Mr. Campbell said, "and they always think it wonderful that Atlanta should take this hospitality upon themselves. It has never been done in any other city or state that I have ever heard of."

I happen to know that in many instances it does the boys much good and helps them materially in their country life. One little instance along this line occurs to me. One of the boys whom I know well, and who was here last year, happened to be taken into the kitchen and saw a kitchen sink. He was deeply interested in it. When that boy went home one of the first things he did was to rig up a kitchen sink for his mother in order to lighten her labor in washing the dishes and set it up on a platform in the kitchen. He took an old vinegar barrel and set it on a pipe from the pump in the yard to the kitchen and kept it pumped full of water. He pitched soap suds under the barrel, with a pipe from the pump in the yard to the kitchen and kept it pumped full of water. He pitched soap suds under the barrel, with a pipe from the pump in the yard to the kitchen and kept it pumped full of water.

It was shown him when he was in Atlanta.

PAYNE GIVES $4,000,000 TO CORNELL UNIVERSITY ITHACA, N. Y., November 14.—(Formal announcement of a gift of $4,000,000 to the Cornell Medical college, of New York city, was made last night by President Jacob Gould Schurman at the opening of the new hospital of the Veterinary college. It is understood the donor is Colonel Oliver H. Payne, of New York, who is a Yale alumnus, but long has been interested in Cornell Medical college affairs. A $4,000,000 gift to the medical college was reported some weeks ago, but official confirmation had been lacking until now. The donor then, as now, was said to be Colonel Payne.

Over $20,000 Worth of MATCHED Dining Room Sets

Now Displayed in the Second Floor of the Furniture Store

There are fifty-seven complete sets.

The price range extends from $67.50, for a modest and substantial fumed oak set, to $1,067.00 for a Sheraton inlaid mahogany set of rare beauty.

We have no doubt that this is the most complete showing of dining room furniture any store south has ever offered its customers.

Mind you, this does not include the separate and odd pieces, but complete sets that may on a moment's notice be transferred from their places here into your dining room.

Why such a wealth of them? It is the Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Company's way of doing things.

It is SERVICE, by which we will earn your favor.

That time of the year has come when the greatest number of homekeepers begin to think of new dining room furniture—they will turn to this store as their place to select it. For such tremendous varieties mean—

(1) We have been able to effect economies that only quantity buying can effect.

(2) Greater satisfaction to every individual customer in that while seeing many sets SIDE BY SIDE, one may study and compare and decide at first hand which is best.

But perhaps the most notable feature of this $20,000.00 worth of dining room furniture is that the fifty-seven sets do not total more than $20,000.00.

Fumed Oak Set $67.50

Four pieces. 60-inch sideboard, one linen, two short drawers; 38-inch china cabinet, 34-inch side table, 45-inch 6-foot extension table. Set No. 1.

Fumed Oak Set $75.75

Four pieces. 48-inch sideboard, mirrored, two compartments, two short and one linen drawers, 40-inch china cabinet, one mirror, 34-inch side table, 45-inch, 6-foot extension table. Set No. 2.

Fumed Oak Set $163.00

Four pieces. A heavy handsome set. 66-inch sideboard, five drawers (one velvet lined), two compartments, 54-inch china cabinet, 40-inch side table, 54-inch, 6-foot extension table. Set No. 9.

Mahogany Set $197.00

Four pieces. The 54-inch buffet, the 44-inch china cabinet, and the 44-inch side table are solid mahogany, Colonial style; the 48-inch, 6-foot extension is mahogany veneered. The solid mahogany table to match adds $13.00 to cost of set. Splendid value! Set No. 22.

Sheraton Inlay Set $263.00

Four pieces. Veneered mahogany. 60-inch sideboard, five drawers, two compartments, 41-inch mirrored china cabinet, 37-inch side table, 48-inch, 8-foot extension table. Graceful. Set No. 53.

Jacobean Oak Set $265.00

Four pieces. A sturdy and substantial set, showing the rope carvings and the lattice work characteristic of the Jacobean period. 66-inch sideboard mirrored, two compartments, three drawers, 44-inch china cabinet, 40-inch side table, 54-inch, 8-foot extension table. Set No. 24.

Antique Mahogany Set $297.50

Four pieces. A beautiful reproduction of an Adam set. The lines are true, the dull, worn finish of the mahogany is rarely attained these days, the pulls, the fretwork carvings are excellent details. 60-inch sideboard, five drawers, two compartments; 45-inch china cabinet, two panels mirrored, 36-inch side table, 54-inch, 8-foot extension table. Set No. 31.

Mahogany Set $384.00

Four pieces. Solid mahogany throughout, antique finish and fashioned along lines characteristic of England a century ago. 66-inch sideboard, three drawers, two compartments; 44-inch china cabinet, 44-inch side table, 54-inch, 10-foot extension table. Set No. 32.

Mahogany Set $391.00

Four pieces. A massive Colonial set, wonderful value. 78-inch sideboard, 50-inch china cabinet, 40-inch side table, 60-inch, 10-foot extension table. Set No. 55.
